Good Attempt

UPSC

(Q1)

Hasty legislations go against the spirit of a participative & deliberative democracy by subverting the collective power of parliament to make laws (Article 79)

Challenge essence of democracy

(1) Lack of deliberation: many bills not sent to parliamentary committees for deliberation (only 17% bills sent in 17th LS)

(2) Bypass parliamentary control: Opposition required to keep arbitrary law in check.

(3) Judicial Challenges → from laws → Electoral Bonds → Election Commission

(4) Civic protests → CAA & NRC → appointments etc → Farm agitations → NEET Bill, etc.

Approaches to be adopted

(1) Use of parliamentary committees: like Departmentally related standing committees

UPSC

to give suggestions & modifications

- (2) Ensure parliamentary attendance: 17th lok Sabha saw on 70% attendance of MPs on average.
- (3) Ensure views of experts: Secretary-General of House empowered to call experts eg As done in DPDP Act, 2024
- (4) Public opinion: Use of technology like MyGov.in & social surveys for needs of people.
- (5) Ensure Adequate sittings: Enough time given to discuss bills & not pass on same day (40% bills passed on same day 17th LC).
- (6) Civil Society involvement: Help reduce post Bill litigation & delays
eg ADR, PUCL, etc

Hence, by incorporating different viewpoints we can ensure a participatory democracy

UPSC

(Q2)

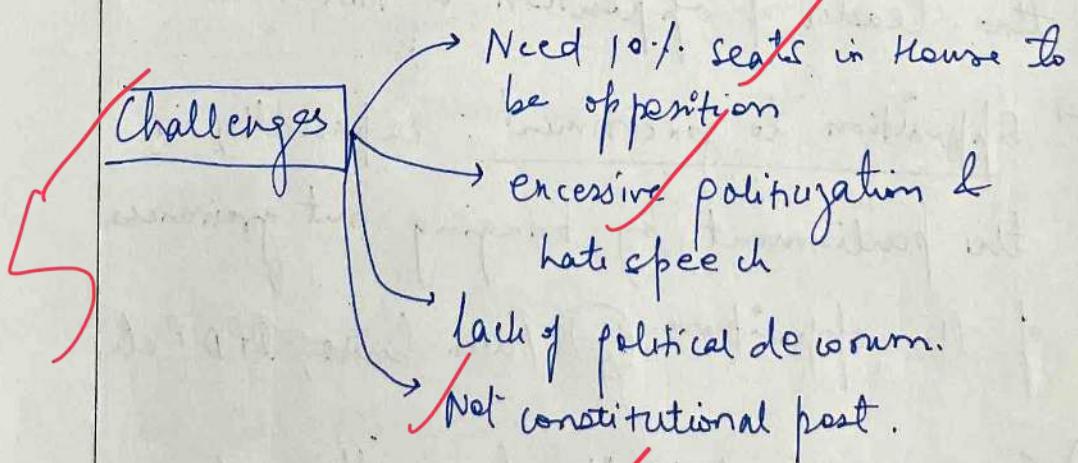

The leader of opposition's post is a statutory post of the rank of a cabinet minister. He ensures there is a limited government by keeping checks & balances.

Practical & Responsible role

UPSC

(Q4)

Recently the Supreme Court declared that right to be free from the adverse effects of climate change is part of fundamental rights under Article 21

Constitutional perspectives

- (1) Directive principles of state policy: Article 48A talks about duty of state to conserve environment & wildlife

- (3) Fundamental rights: Article 21 many interpretations by Supreme Court
  - (a) M.C. Mehta Case → Right to clean environment
  - (b) Maneka Gandhi case → environment to be clean
  - (c) Vellore Citizens forum Case → polluter pays principle evolved.

UPSC

How concept evolved over time

- (1) Initially in A.K. Gopalan Case court took conservative position → process established by law.
- (2) Maneka Gandhi Case → due process of laws
- (3) Several interpretations were then taken eg MC Mehta, T.N. Gedamman Case (forests)
- (4) Rights of people widened eg Posco vs State of Orissa Case
- (5) Formation of National Green Tribunal (India only country after Australia & New Zealand) good contd Round exam

Hence, a clean environment is a constitutional right as per the Supreme Court

UPSC

Right to privacy evolved

Kohli Singh Case
Maneka Gandhi
Puttaswamy Case

Both Hold significant Value

RTI → helps provide information to citizens
transparency & accountability
Accessibility of information participatory democracy principles

Right to privacy → Constitutional right (Article 21)
